Crisis scenarios in recent years, from the Covid 19 pandemic to international disasters such as the earthquakes in Turkey and Syria and the crises in Ukraine, have demonstrated the importance of cooperation between the civilian and military medical sectors in the event of an emergency. The events of recent years have provided valuable experience in this respect.

The Trauma Center Vienna, Meidling (AUVA), in cooperation with Military Health Services of the Austrian Armed Forces, would like to invite you to a symposium to learn, network and exchange experiences on an international level.
